

Relation between Civilization and Architecture in Ancient East

Outana Eghtesad

outana.eghtesad@gmail.com

Reihaneh Sajad

Phd student in Art university of Isfahan, The Faculty of Conservation of Historic Buildings and Sites Isfahan & Tutor in Daneshpajooan Higher Education Institute
rnh.sajad@Gmail.com

Abstract

Civilizations more emphasise on Litarture, professional arts, Architecture and religion. There are manner and complex tradition that all of them in the serve of development society. Iran has one of the oldest civilizations all around the world. In Iran, Isfahan, as the capital of the Islamic civilization and culture is home of many historic sites and structures which hosts a lot of tourists, architects and art lovers on a regular basis. To address the historic and traditional values of my country, It has intentionally tried to consider the underlying factors of civilization in choosing the topic of the article. The purpose was, therefore, twofold. First, wanted to advertise this rich civilization to my people and the people of the world in addition to familiarizing Iranians with other civilization. Secondly, wanted to help prevent oblivion of this rich civilization. The current article, therefore, is an attempt to highlight the role of architecture in presenting some spatial patterns and frameworks of cultural and civilizational centers. Besides, it aims to demonstrate the undeniable and determining susceptibility of civilization in arhitecture of ancient east civilization such as Egypt, China, India and Iran. In this article try to the point of the descriptive –analytical method, at first, study on basic concept. Besides, after the analysis and comparison the Ancient east civilization and mutual relationship between Ideas, Beliefs that exist on the society that creator the civilization of that region, achieve to the influence of civilization and architecture.

Keywords: connection, civilization, East ancient, cultural, Architecture.