4th International Conference of Sustanble Development & Urban Construction
December, 17-19, 2014

Architectural Design of the Neighborhood and Its Association with the Urban Landscape

Hasan Jajromi

shahram_jaj@yahoo.com

Behnam Behnia

behnam.beh92@gmail.com

Abstract

In today's society, urban, urban neighborhood is the most fundamental element of the link between the city and its citizens. The neighborhood has long had a special place in the formation and organization of municipal affairs.Each district is required to provide routine services and to create symbols and special features allowing the The residents have a sense of belonging and identity Where every citizen has lived in the neighborhood where it was known Adjacent neighborhood of homes in a particular geographical area is similar feelings toward his family and his home is a residential neighborhood and the entrance to the neighborhood,In a familiar environment like home and sees itself. Neighborhood of aggregation and integration, socialize close, strong ties of neighborhood and informal alliances, among a group of people there.Note that the goal of any knowledge of the historic fabric Look into the future and enhance the lives of patients with Vasalt identity is.In the past, development management, clearing and securing and Neighborhood residents wanted to participate in all matters relating to the neighborhood, Role was important but over the role of citizens and residents are removed from the particular identity of his neighborhood were empty.In such a situation a passive and isolated its citizens from the neighborhood and the city as well as the city felt was administered in the absence citizens.With the rapid development of modern infrastructure into transition and changing economic and social relations,It fell apart in the neighborhoods with the status inconsistency.The principal is between family and city neighborhoods.It is expected that lay-off scheme in addition to physical protection of buildings and old neighborhoods lead compound,Cause the development and growth of living standards of local communities to provide and to understand the needs and demands of today's residents and other groups using the facilities and services of the injection of new content to the old structure, restoration and enhancement of areas of social life cause.

Keywords: neighborhood, area, city, development.

32

International Conference of Sustainable Development
& Urban Construction